STATEMENTS OF OBJECTS AND REASONS

1. The Department of Atomic Energy (DAE), since its inception, has been pursuing basic research as well as technology development with equal rigour. Over the years, a robust institutional framework has been put in place. Today, apart from industrial units, DAE runs several major research centres and grant-in-aid institutions. A key element of the success achieved in the manpower development is the setting up of a school to teach nuclear science and engineering to engineering graduates and science post-graduates. In addition, research centres and the grant-in-aid institutions, apart from carrying out research, have been running doctoral programmes, which have helped in producing high quality scientific research personnel. It is in this respect of an in-house human resource development programme that the DAE has been unique. This emphasis on human resource development has provided well trained manpower for indigenous development of nuclear science and technology.

2. Challenges in various advanced technology areas, particularly nuclear science and engineering, continue and it has, therefore, become imperative that DAE conceives of novel ways through which in-depth capabilities in nuclear science and engineering, and mathematics are unabatedly nurtured within our institutions. It was in this context that the idea of establishing the Homi Bhabha National Institute (HBNI) with a deemed to be university status was proposed and the HBNI was notified as a deemed to be university by the Central Government in June 2005. The HBNI integrates academic programmes of several DAE institutions and has been accredited by National Assessment and Accreditation Council with a CGPA of 3.53 on a four point scale valid until 10 May 2020. On 4th April 2016, it was ranked at 17th position in the university category by the National Institutional Ranking Framework.

3. Considering that the HBNI has emerged as an excellent research university, it is in the fitness of things that it is given the status of an Institution of National Importance through an Act of Parliament.

4. The object of the bill is, therefore, to establish HBNI as an institution of national importance.
