Complexity: An Evolving View

For over a decade, I have been absorbing eclectic selection of textual materials (articles, essays, research papers, books, interviews, biographies) from esoteric domains of philosophy of mind, cognition, biology, social sciences, ecology, architecture and design. The resonance of 'structure', 'connectivity', 'complexity' embedded in these domains began to trigger my artistic sensibility.

In my current talk I present the genesis of this 'transformation', discovery of novel materials, medium and techniques at different stages to express my evolving thought.
